TIE-UP THREATENED OF BASIC INDUSTRY BY MINERS' STRIKE

Twenty-Five Hundred Staying Down in Protest Against Hiring of Non-Union Men—Armed Police Guarding Pitheads and Railway Bridges—Attempt to Wreck Train

NEWPORT, Monmouthshire, England, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas).—Twenty-five hundred Welsh coal miners were barricaded in their underground pits tonight as the Government moved to prevent the strike at Monmouthshire developing into a complete tie-up of Britain's coal industry.

Armed police patrols at all Monmouthshire pitheads were extended to nearby railroad bridges when striking miners threatened to dynamite the bridges to stop trains bringing in strike-breakers.

START OF STRIKE
 The strike originated last Saturday at the Nine-Mile Point Colliery, where about seventy miners refused to turn to the surface, as a protest against the hiring of non-union labor by the Ocean Coal Company, owners of the mine. They were joined by several hundred sympathizers as the strike spread to other Ocean Coal Company mines and then to other companies' shafts in the Monmouthshire region.

A general stoppage of coal mining in South Wales is threatened. The men in the mines are reported playing cards and generally are comfortable.

MISSED THE COACH
 Sympathizers attempted to wreck a train carrying industrial union men to the mines. They hurled 100 pounds of rock on the train as it passed beneath a bridge, but missed the coach in which the men were riding and hit an empty car. There were no casualties.

Ethiopians Massing Troops At Key Points—Italians Active in Air

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 15 (AP).—Italian bombing planes swooped over strategic sections of Ethiopia today while Emperor Haile Selassie rallied his wild tribesmen to the defense of the empire.

Bombs were dropped by Fascist planes on Addis Ababa, near Makale, and on troops at Makale, sixty miles south of Addis Ababa, an official communiqué said. It asserted that there were no casualties.

This aerial activity indicated that the Italians were preparing to strike at the strategic town of Makale and at the railroad, Ethiopia's only outlet to the sea.

While the Italian planes struck fear in the border sections, Haile Selassie sent out huge contingents of warriors to key points to meet expected Italian attacks from both the north and the south. More than 150,000 fresh troops, it was said in official circles, will pass through the capital this week en route to the front for review by the emperor.

REAL STORY IN BALLOT BOXES

Webster Has Majority of Ninety in Burrard—Outcome Still in Doubt

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP).—While the final count in Vancouver-Burrard shows a majority of ninety for Arnold Webster, C.C.F., over Mayor G. G. McGee, Liberal, R. G. Phipps, returning officer, stated tonight that the real story of the vote, in view of its closeness, lies sealed up in the ballot boxes.

The figures accompanying the boxes will be rechecked when they are opened on October 25 and a request for a recount of the votes themselves by one or other of the candidates within the prescribed four days after opening is regarded as a certainty.

WIDE ROOM FOR ERROR

Mr. Phipps stated that the returns from the various polls had been taken over the telephone in the rush of election night, and added up. He saw wide room for error in the taking of the figures by this means, but there is no way of checking the telephone figures until the ballot boxes are opened.

Camps of the two opposing candidates each make claims that the other was cheated. Mayor McGee, basing his count on a check of certificates issued by Liberal scrutineers, claim that the mayor was elected by anywhere from four to twenty-one votes.

Proposal to End Strike Is Rejected

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP).—Vancouver and District Waterfront Workers' Association tonight voted against acceptance of a five-point proposal advanced by the British Columbia Shipping Federation, and announced they would draw up a programme of their own and present it to the Federation.

The Federation proposal was made following private conferences between the employers and the strikers.

IT SHOT PERFECTLY
 KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15 (AP).—Melvin Shipman, thirteen, was showing his pal, Herbert Branum, fourteen, how he had fixed an old broken pistol with wire and a rubber band so it would shoot. Herbert pulled the hammer back. Melvin was killed.

New Ministry to Have Largest Majority in Canadian History

EARLY SELECTION OF CABINET IS EXPECTED

(By the Canadian Press)
 A week or ten days from now Canada will have a new Government, an administration headed by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, whose Liberal Party was swept into office Monday with the biggest majority in Canadian political history.

Premier Bennett, whose Conservative forces were beaten all along the election front, will step aside for Mr. King, but there will be the usual delay of a few days while the incoming Cabinet is selected. The switch will be made at the new Prime Minister's convenience.

HAS RECORD FOLLOWING

With one doubtful seat, to hear from the Liberals have 168 seats in a House of 245. In addition, there are four Independent Liberals and two Liberal-Progressives, who probably will lend support to the new administration, bringing the Government forces to the unprecedented

Cougar Proves to Be Just a Coon

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP).—A raccoon which had been prowling in the South Vancouver district for some time and which residents believed to be a large cougar owing to the severe injuries it had inflicted on a number of dogs, was captured by a city police constable today and turned over to the Provincial game warden.

The constable was on duty in the 1100 block, East Twenty-Sixth Avenue, when he saw the raccoon up in a tree. He managed to force it from the tree and trap it under a box.

ELDEST QUADRUPLET FAILS TO SURVIVE

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas).—George Harmsworth, eldest of the quadruplets born on Saturday to Mrs. Victoria Harmsworth, died here at 8 p.m. today, less than three days after his birth.

Yesterday the four babies were given peptonized human milk for the first time, and until this afternoon all had seemed to thrive on the diet.

Garner's Duty to Be Silent

Vice-President of United States Lets Others Do All Speechmaking

SEATTLE, Oct. 16. Typically Texan is "Cactus Jack" J. N. Garner, Vice-President of the United States and leading figure of the Senate, who will be welcomed this afternoon to Canada. He and Mrs. Garner received Victoria newspapermen in their suite in the New Washington Hotel last night and chatted informally for a considerable time. The Vice-President declined to say anything about either domestic or foreign policy, stating that when he took office as Vice-President it was with the understanding that he was to be the silent partner in the Roosevelt-Garner Administration.

He has, he added, maintained this policy of silence ever since the present Government took office. In spite of the demonstration and parades following his arrival in Seattle, yesterday, he said that the welcoming committee had done all the talking, that he was going to let others

Crack Military Units Moved to Border of Libya

Member-Elect Increases His Lead in the City

ADDITIONAL absentee ballots received by Returning Officer Child here, yesterday, brought D. B. Plunkett's majority to an even 990 votes more than his nearest competitor, Prof. J. King Gordon. Without change in relative positions, the standing then became: D. B. Plunkett, Conservative, 7,463; J. King Gordon, C.C.F., 6,473; C. J. McDowell, Liberal, 6,438; and P. E. George, Reconstructionist, 909—total, 21,283. The official count will proceed in Victoria on October 25, Mr. Child said.

War Supplies of All Descriptions Being Unloaded At Alexandria—Gas Masks Distributed in Danger Zone as Precautionary Measure—Egyptian Leaders in Daily Conference

(Copyright, 1935, by the Havas News Agency)

CAIRO, Oct. 15.—Tanks, bombing planes, munitions and artillery continued to arrive today from England, while British fleet units at Alexandria engaged in manoeuvres.

Conferences by Sir Miles Lampson, British High Commissioner, with the Egyptian High Command, have resulted in sending British and Egyptian troops to the Libyan border.

Crack British infantry, machine gun units and artillery are being massed at Salum, at the very edge of Cyrenaica, on the Mediterranean Sea, as an advance guard. Matruh, in the same region, has taken on the aspect of a veritable wartime military base, with thousands of Egyptian troops under British command assembling with full fighting equipment.

GREAT ACTIVITY AT ALEXANDRIA
 Confirming earlier Havas dispatches from London, it is known huge quantities of munitions, tanks and armored cars, scout planes and bombers and anti-aircraft artillery are being systematically debarked at Alexandria.

Ten big tri-motored bombers have arrived in the last week, it is confirmed, and have been unloaded under the close watch of seventy-five British war vessels of all sizes and classes. Light, fast reconnaissance planes from England are included in the shipments.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES
 Egyptian authorities decided today to make gas masks available for every person in the danger zone and took immediate steps to distribute them without delay. The order was issued as "preparation for any possible development."

Sir Miles Lampson, Egyptian Premier Tavfik Nassim Pasha, Egypt's key defence ministers and the Egyptian general staff are in daily conference here, it is learned. British military experts are attending. Sir Miles has made a number of swift flights to various strategic centres, including Alexandria and Western Egypt, near Libya.

On the high Libyan plateau on the border of Italy's colony, picked British troops, veterans of colonial engagements, are encamped at several outposts. Egyptian soldiers have been transferred farther to the rear.

SOLDIERS SENT AFTER RAIDERS

Five American Businessmen Released Unharmed by Band of Mexicans

MAGDALENA, Mex., Oct. 15 (AP).—Troops, planes and hastily armed civilians organized tonight against hard-riding Mexican raiders. Five prominent American businessmen on a hunting trip were believed safe, after having been reported in the hands of the rebels. Apprehension spread in the border district, however, because of the fear of further raids. Five persons already have fallen before rebel guns. Moreover, the raiders had seized the town of Santa Ana—100 miles from the border and only a short distance south of here.

FREED UNHARMED
 First reports concerning the Americans were they had been seized and disarmed. Word came from several sources today that they were freed unharmed.

Federal soldiers and armed citizens patrolled Magdalena because of a report that the raiders were in the hills near here. A squadron of military planes joined the search. All municipalities in this district doubled their guards and armed private citizens against the possibility of surprise attacks.

The main raiding band of about eighty was reported composed of farmers and ranchers opposing the Mexican Government's religious and agrarian policies.

Seven Killed by Truck Hitting Bus

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 15 (AP).—Seven persons were killed and nine injured, at least one seriously, when a heavy truck loaded with iron bars crashed into an omnibus carrying sixteen passengers today on the highway connecting Buenos Aires and La Plata City.

THE PIPE WAS LEAKING
 SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Fred Echenhorst thought he smelled escaping gas. "Maybe a pipe is leaking," suggested a friend, Tom Coulter, who was visiting Echenhorst at his home. Echenhorst lit a match to see. The resulting explosion sent both men to the emergency hospital with serious burns.

POLITICAL PARTY
 The nature of the "League" was definitely set out as a purely political organization with the object of securing control of the next provincial legislature and, it was intimated by members, an election in British Columbia.

It was stated by officials, contact had already been established with Premier Aberhart, of Alberta, and he had expressed readiness to assist the movement and probably visit the Coast Province in the near future.

The new movement here has ambitions to become headquarters of the Social Credit organization, politically, of British Columbia. The title "League" was adopted, after some discussion, to allow supporters

CONDUCT SHAM BATTLES

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas).—A sham sea and air attack on Gibraltar, cladded of the British Empire route, was in progress tonight somewhere in the darkness of the Mediterranean.

Five British ships of the line, accompanied by ten destroyers and escorting craft, with battle planes roaring overhead, moved out of this newly-fortified harbor at dusk.

The night manoeuvres simulated an attack on Gibraltar by a powerful foe. Part of the fleet represented the attackers and part the defenders, with Gibraltar itself manning searchlights and anti-aircraft batteries.

The battle cruiser Hood, largest warship ever built, and the battle cruiser Renown moved out of the harbor.

CONSTABLE HURT MAKING ARREST

Is Seriously Injured When Attacked While Taking Two Suspected Robbers to Station

ORENVILLE, Ont., Oct. 15 (CP).—Local Constable A. Page, of Orenville, lay in hospital at Hawkesbury, near here today, believed to be in a dying condition as the result of a street fight last evening in which he was suffering from a fracture of the skull, a broken leg, broken left arm, facial lacerations and severe body bruises.

The fight occurred as the constable was taking two youths suspected of robbery to the police station. Someone attacked the constable and a fight ensued. Seven people, besides Page, were injured in the melee in which spectators joined.

Magistrate Busy After Election

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (AP).—Aftermath of what was said to be a comparatively quiet election day, twenty-seven men and women were paraded through magistrate's court today on charges of assault, intimidation of voters, impersonation, attempted impersonation and trying to vote after disqualification. All pleaded not guilty and were remanded.

Congratulate Canada On Common Sense In Voting at Election

British Press Pleased at Dominion's Rejection of Cranks and Fancy Parties—All Parties Stress Value of Strong Administration

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Several newspapers remarked today upon the defeat of new parties in commenting upon the Canadian general election. "The welcome result of the election is the rout of Socialists and cranks," said The Daily Mail. "It is the signal of deliverance for Canada upon which she deserves the warmest congratulations."

"People here naturally regret the hard clean," said The Times. "No nostrums or patent medicine cures for these voters, despite hard times."

A GRATIFYING NOTE
"Mr. King, we imagine, is unlikely to set out upon any pronounced departure in fiscal matters," remarked The Yorkshire Post. "A gratifying note is that the election as a body have given the cold shoulder to fancy parties—pretty plain proof of Canada's level-headed political outlook. Mr. King in most ways is as sound an exponent of true Imperialism as Mr. Bennett."

DEEPLY COMMITTED
The News-Chronicle, under the caption "End of Bennettism," says: "Canadian Liberals are deeply committed to lowering tariffs and abolishing high protection, which under the rule of Mr. Bennett hit the Canadian farmer so hard."

"If the British Government do desire it is a big if—it now has the chance to discuss with Mr. King what never could be discussed fruitfully with Mr. Bennett and to negotiate for the removal of the worst features of the Ottawa Agreements, thereby reversing the fatal process of ring-fencing the British Empire."

"The wildcats and the freaks are sunk," exclaimed The Daily Express. "It is a fine tribute to the common sense of these Dominion folk. Twenty-five years ago they banned alien immigration and stuck to Anglo-Saxon stock and kept the

Liberal Government To Take Office in Week or Ten Days

total of 174. There will be so many Liberals in the new House the whips will be forced to take some of the seats on the Opposition side of the House.

It will be the third time Mr. King has entered the Prime Minister's office. His first term of office started in 1921, the first time the Liberals had been in office since 1911. The second time was in 1926, the Meighen shadow Government having held office a few months that year. His third term will start in a few days.

ALL SECTIONS REPRESENTED
The new Prime Minister's immediate job is to form a Cabinet for the first time in his political life, his majority will be large enough to assure an equal voice to all sections of the country in the Liberal caucus. He has large groups from the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and the West, something he never had before, when most of his followers came from one section of the country, changing election by election.

Two courses are open to Mr. King in selecting his Cabinet. He could reappoint ten Ministers who held office under him before or he could introduce new blood, younger men among his veterans of the past. The ten Cabinet veterans who returned to Parliament yesterday were Hon. Peter Venn, Hon. Ernest Macdonald, Hon. P. J. A. Carlin, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Hon. Lucien Cannon, Hon. W. D. Euler, Hon. J. C. Elliott, Hon. W. R. Mohrwell, Hon. T. A. Cregar and Hon. Ian MacKenzie.

MAY ENTER CABINET
Political gossip already has linked Premier Gardiner, of Saskatchewan, with a Federal portfolio and there have been few distinct rumors of Premier MacDonald, of Nova Scotia, jumping to the Federal fields. One of the newcomers to politics, who is regarded as sure Cabinet material, is Norman Rogers, of Kingston, Ont., a professor of economics on the staff of Queen's University and formerly Mr. King's private secretary.

At least one change in the Canadian diplomatic corps is regarded as a certainty. Hon. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, is expected to resign his post, which has been regarded in the past as a political office. He is expected to be succeeded by Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian Minister to Washington, who was appointed to the London office prior to the 1930 election, but never got there.

LEADERS CONFERENCE
Premier Bennett was at his office in the East Block, Ottawa, yesterday as usual, but Mr. King motored to his country home in the Gatineau Hills to spend a quiet day. In the evening Mr. Bennett called on Mr. King and they spent two hours in conference. No announcement followed the meeting.

Although nothing definite has been decided, John H. Blackmore, a Lethbridge, Alta., school teacher, may be leader of the Social Credit bloc in the new House, the third largest group. Social Credit, making its debut in Federal politics, elected seventeen members, most of them from Alberta. The new leader will have about double the followers of J. S. Woodworth of the C.C.F. will have. And he will be far ahead of Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstructionists, who was assured of only one seat, his own.

RESULTS IN QUEBEC
Quebec's contribution to the overwhelming Liberal victory reached the round figure of 200 in the big northeast county of Pontiac was won by J. E. Piche, who resigned from the Quebec Legislature to contest the seat.

Of the sixty, fifty-six were official Liberal candidates, while four others, no less keen Liberals, ran successfully as Independent Liberals due to their dissatisfaction with the choices selected by party nomination meetings.

Against that gift to Premier-elect King the province supplied Premier Bennett with but five supporters, two of them members of his cabinet. Four of the seats were won in Montreal, and the fifth, Sir George Perley's seat, is in the Laurentian district, close to this city.

RECOUNT IS EXPECTED
A recount appeared likely in Pontiac, where Piche's majority was slim, but even if the counts should reverse the verdict it will be a Liberal seat. His closest opponent, W. R. MacDonald, running as an Independent Liberal, was also a member of the Quebec Legislature until the Dominion campaign opened.

Regret that Henri Bourassa, Independent member of the House of Commons since 1925, had been defeated in L'Abbaye by a Liberal was expressed by Premier Taschereau of Quebec.

It is believed if he were to present himself in another election, his supporters should come to an understanding to let him be elected by acclamation," Mr. Taschereau said.

Crash Ends Attempt to Set Record

BASRA, Mesopotamia, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas).—The Australian aviator, H. P. Broadbent, crashed near here tonight in his attempt to set a new record for a lone flight from Australia to England and return. He escaped unhurt but the landing gear of his plane was badly damaged.

The crash apparently ended his hopes for a record flight.

ROBBERY CASE IS PROCEEDING

William Baker Charged With Using Violence Against Two Women

The preliminary hearing of the charge against William Baker of robbery with violence committed against Mrs. Margaret Scott and her sister, Mrs. Isabelle Ramsay, of Calgary, who was on a visit to the former's home at 119 Sims Avenue, Saanich, opened in the Saanich Police Court yesterday. The hearing will be continued today at 11 a.m. when Dr. H. H. Murphy will be called to testify with respect to X-ray plates made by him showing the injuries, sustained by the two sisters.

Mrs. Scott positively identified the accused as one of the persons who entered her place on April 24. She had previously identified the accused in a line-up.

Dr. David Berman, of Saanich, testified to having attended the two sisters, who were very severely injured about the "fices," arms and shoulders. There had been hemorrhages inside the mouth of each of them owing to the rough usage to which they had been subjected, he stated. The arms were badly bruised and Mrs. Scott had evidently been given a blow on the right cheek which caused severe injuries, witness said.

CALLED NEXT DAY

Chief Alan Rankin, in examination by C. Harold Tait for the prosecution, testified to having been called to the home the day after the attack and robbery. The place had been ransacked, he declared. Mrs. Scott, in her evidence, said a boy came to her place on April 23. He asked about renting a house and wanted to see it. Witness stated that she told him to come in the daytime. He went away and came back late in the evening the next day with the accused.

She had told him he should come in the daytime, but the accused said he was working and could not come then. Finally, he got in through the door. She was attempting to keep the door open, but he persuaded in closing it. At the time she thought this peculiar, she stated. Mrs. Scott said Baker seized and choked her and abused her, preventing her from calling out. Her purse, which was on the kitchen table, contained at least $20 besides small change. It was ransacked, in common with everything else in the house. Her sister's luggage was found to have been scattered. She knew the accused, as he lived with his mother, three doors from her place, she testified.

Witness said she was nearly suffocated. The accused stayed about half an hour in the house.

Mrs. Ramsay, who is seventy-three years of age, recalled the man coming to the door on April 23. On April 24, while she was in bed, her sister having also gone to bed between 8 and 9 o'clock, her sister, as she thought, let one man come into the house. "A man came into my room and took me by the throat and threw me on the floor. He held me by the arm while he gagged me. I suffered injuries to my jaw, which will never be fully restored. My jaw was broken in four places. My purse was robbed of not less than $20. My railway ticket and a cheque were left," Mrs. Ramsay told the court.

KNEW ACCUSED

Fenwick Rutherford, of Nanaimo, was called to testify to knowing the accused. He told of having met him in Nanaimo and had driven about that city with him in a hired car. Marshall Parley, of this city, also knew the accused and testified that at one time the accused had asked him if he wished to make some easy money. The witness said he replied he did not. When he refused, the accused had "become hot under the collar." Later the accused told him he was working in a Chinese greenhouse, witness declared.

Sgt. P. K. Cummings testified to going to Pontiac and bringing the accused back to Victoria.

ACROSS THE COUNTRY

There was nothing essentially surprising in Monday's election results that such parts of Canada as the Maritimes, Quebec and Saskatchewan should have given the Liberals an overwhelming majority. It is, however, a matter for interesting speculation why Ontario, a traditionally Conservative province for a long number of years, should have returned fifty-five Liberals and only twenty-six Conservatives. The advent of the Reconstruction Party was, of course, partly responsible for this result, but, as well, it is evident that Premier Mitchell Hepburn was a factor of no mean importance in turning the scale. He was an aggressive campaigner and threw the whole support of the provincial organization in favor of Mr. Mackenzie King. Ontario's verdict, more than that of any other province, because the least expected, is indicative of the Liberal wave of thought which has swept through the Dominion.

That the Liberals should have elected over thirty members in Western Canada exceeded their own anticipations. They were the dominant party in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In Alberta and British Columbia they fared badly in a proportionate sense. Alberta gave the Abernethian Social Creditors a sweeping majority, as was anticipated. The result in British Columbia was the most mixed of any province and it was here that the Co-operative Commonwealth candidates made their best showing. It was also here that, comparatively, the Conservatives did better than anywhere else, which is encouraging to that party inasmuch as there is not a Conservative member of the local Legislature. The Liberals have been disappointed with their showing in British Columbia. With a Provincial Legislature overwhelmingly Liberal they expected to secure at least eight of the sixteen seats. They have had to be satisfied with half of that number.

This province has the distinction of having elected the only Reconstructionist candidate in the Dominion in the person of Mr. H. H. Stevens, the leader of that party. The situation leaves Mr. Stevens' political future of an extremely problematical character. It appears as if he will have to plough a lonely furrow in Parliament, unless, indeed, he should ally himself with the Abernethian Social Creditors, who, next to the Conservatives, will be the largest party in opposition.

The final returns throughout the country show a Liberal victory of an emphatic character as any won in the country since Confederation. That party can in any case in the House of Commons count on a majority of upwards of ninety votes over all the opposition parties combined. There can, therefore, be no excuse whatever for Mr. Mackenzie King not putting any and all the policies he has advocated into effect. He can repeal Section 98 of the Criminal Code, make the Bank of Canada a nationally-owned and controlled institution, reduce tariffs, and cure unemployment by the means he has advocated. The opposition in Parliament will be so small numerically that they will be approximately 50 per cent greater than in 1934. In 1931 manufacturers of electric refrigerators sold less than 1,000,000, and the next year's sales amounted to 840,000.

Since then the increase has been steady, and in the first five months of 1935 the distribution was double that for the corresponding period in 1934. The estimate of the probable total sales for this year is 2,000,000, as against 1,400,000 in 1934. It is possible that credit arrangements have been eased, and that this, in part, may account for the growing sales. That cannot, however, be the case altogether. There is, as well, a greater ability to purchase which shows economic progress. It is the story of all such conveniences that what was yesterday regarded as a luxury is soon converted into a necessity. There is an instance in this in the case of electric refrigerators.

CONSERVATIVE FORTUNES IN B.C.

The fact that British Columbia elected five Conservative members to the House of Commons in Monday's election and the handsome aggregate vote polled throughout the province will encourage that party on the revival of its fortunes. The result, in this respect, should provide an immediate incentive for the restoration of the provincial party in all its old-time vigor. While sentiment is as it is no time should be lost in the holding of a Provincial Conservative Convention at which a leader should be chosen and a platform defined. This matter has already been left too long. The more delay there is the greater will be the difficulties facing the party. The fact that there are no Conservatives in the Provincial Legislature, that is, no member of that party elected as such, is no excuse for any further delay in the re-organization work. A convention for the purposes noted should be held before the next session of the Provincial Legislature, and the strengthening of Conservative associations throughout the province should be a definite plan proceeded with from now to the time of the next provincial election.

The Conservatives will be greatly heartened by the Federal result in this province. It is no small achievement that in the course of the Liberal landslide British Columbia should have done proportionately better for the Conservative cause than any other province in the Dominion. The reason for this is that this province is essentially Conservative at heart. The party would have made a better showing on Monday had there been no Reconstruction Party in the field, for that political organization alienated many Conservative votes, and it is conceivable that, throughout the Dominion, it was the cause of the Conservatives losing a couple of scores of constituencies. There will be no Reconstruction Party in the provincial field. As an antidote to any further parties engaging the provincial election it is essential that the Conservatives reorganize their fortunes. Every effort should be brought to bear on that purpose, a necessary preliminary to which is a known leadership and a known platform, two things that cannot be accomplished without the holding of a provincial convention.

COMMUNISM AND CHRISTIANITY

There is more than one reason why Communism is not making headway in British lands. Perhaps the chief one is that it is professedly atheistic, and anti-religious theories are pursued with militant and missionary attacks. Moreover, there is another reason why it is so difficult for Communism to gain ground. It attacks capitalism, so called, in unreasoning language. It speaks of employers as exploiting the people. Professor John Macmurray, in his recent book on "Creative Society," deals with this aspect of the political creed with special relation to Great Britain. There, he says, when the Communist agitator seeks to increase the sentiment of class antagonism between the worker and the employer, the natural reaction of the people is to say, "We know the people you are talking about, and they are not like that." Speaking of the British working class, Professor Macmurray says: "But it is also highly sensitive to the great amount of good-will and kindness that is to be found in its relations with those human beings who happen to be capitalists, often through no fault of their own. It is the fundamental importance of these personal or rather inter-personal values for the English which offers such a stubborn resistance to the effort to inculcate a theory based upon purely economic interests, which ignores them. Consequently the Labor Party and the various Socialist parties of this country (Great Britain) are little touched by the pure economic theories of Marxism. It would, in fact, be possible for them to accept the important truth that Communist theory involves only if it were translated into terms which included and affirmed as its ethical basis the religious values which it overlooks and ignores. It is in England, if anywhere, that real Christianity provides the answer to the situation."

WARS AND STRIKES

The notion of insulating the British Isles from the perils of belligerency by act of Parliament is not wholly lacking in an element of comedy, but what strikes one most is the incongruity of trying to train that infant peace to run before it can walk. Everybody agrees that war is an unmitigated evil, but one may be permitted to ask whether it is an evil less unmitigated in the field of domestic than of foreign affairs. The Socialist, for instance, who exorcises a military dispute as a flagrant manifestation of militarism will not hesitate to instigate a strike over some trifling dispute with an employer, though a strike is just as much a resort to war as an armed breach with a neighbor across the Channel, for it is not just as much a defiance of reason and order? Is there any sentiment, then, in upholding the sacredness of the one and the wickedness of the other?—HONGKONG PRESS.

THE HEM OF HIS GARMENT

I've come back to my trees again,
For there I find,
As in no human form,
The healing of a mind.
'Tis strange! I only touch the hem
Of Nature's stole,
That robes the Delly,
To be myself made whole.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Whose name was empty, and whose stake was thrown,
whose table was earth—whose dice were human bones.

—Byron.

A semester, the greater master he is in his art, the worse man he is—Bacon.

"What a man!" rapturously exclaimed Ma Kennedy a day or so
after she had been joined in the state of holy matrimony to a man whose name we forget, but whose profession was that of an evangelist. Ma and Amy have dropped out of the press news and the pictures almost as completely as the
now unknown and unnamed Sky
Pilot—a term which should be permissible here, inasmuch as it is the title of one of the most interesting stories of the father of Prof. King
Gordon.

What a man! must be the exclamation of almost everybody who reads the daily news of the wonderful exploits and adroit manoeuvres
of Signor Mussolini, the uncrowned
King of Italy. The Council of the League of Nations has found the evangelist and unprovoked war upon Ethiopia. Mussolini declares that he is not making war upon the Abyssinians, that his legions are merely peacefully penetrating
Ethiopia for the good and welfare
of the Ethiopians and establishing
in their hearts and souls the blessings of Roman culture; that such unavoidable incidents as the political creed of almost helpless men,
women and children are merely incidental to his beneficent designs.

The League has declared that Mussolini is an international out-
law and that Italy under his leadership is no longer worthy of membership in the international organization created for the purpose
of maintaining peace throughout the world. Consider the situation and tell us if you can what can be made of it. Some of the old comic opera composers might make something interesting and profitable out
of it, but the actual situation defies
explanation by any sane person except upon a humorous basis. Italy
has been practically kicked out of the League. If her representatives had any sense of human or national dignity they would get out and stay
out, but after they are practically kicked out they come back and ask
for more rebuffs.

The agents of Mussolini have
been told to clear out of Ethiopia,
but they are merely a demonstration
by an Italian police force thrown into the country for the purpose
of maintaining the law and establishing order. They say that technically wherever there is an Italian
consular office, that is Italian territory, and the Ethiopian Government is responsible for the security
of the lives and the property
of the officials.

What is the object of this comic operatic farce that a war is not a
war, and of Mussolini meekly submitting to rebuffs from the League
of Nations and persisting in maintaining Italian membership in the League? Is it possible that the dictator utilizes that he cannot win
against the combined economic
forces of the world and is appalled
at the unanimity of the verdict of condemnation of his course pronounced by the moral opinion of the world? Is it not possible that Mussolini would be greatly relieved
in mind if he could find a reasonable excuse for withdrawing his forces from Africa, and that he hopes to induce the League of Nations to formulate terms of peace
which might save his face and Italy
from an inevitable disaster?

Mussolini has gambled with fortune from the beginning of his sensational career. The dice have been turning against him for several years. The form of Socialism
he set up in Italy has not produced
the expected results. His corporate state has not created prosperity in either the primary or the manufacturing industries. There has been a deep business depression throughout the land. At the beginning of his career the cry of the people was
"What a man!" The dictator knew that his influence was waning and his position in peril. So in order to postpone a possible revolution he made what probably will be his last desperate cast of the dice. He has created at tremendous expense a vast army and an impressive navy.

To divert attention from impending internal chaos Mussolini declared that he must make war with
his soldiers and his modern war
machinery against some nation, and
chose as the victim of his ambition
the weakest and the least offensive nation within striking distance. No doubt he considered the League of Nations merely a paper organization whose purposes were only nominally impressive. The League
did nothing in one important case.
It was sure to prove impotent in his case. But in his case it happened that the League was not without leadership and that with leadership it might be capable of action.
The gambler has made his last

desperate cast. The fate of a nation is at stake. The climax is certain.
The probable exclamation of the world may be not what a man, but
what a fool!

The agents of Mussolini have
been told to clear out of Ethiopia,
but they are merely a demonstration
by an Italian police force thrown
into the country for the purpose
of maintaining the law and establishing order. They say that technically wherever there is an Italian
consular office, that is Italian territory, and the Ethiopian Government is responsible for the security
of the lives and the property
of the officials.

What is the object of this comic
operatic farce that a war is not a
war, and of Mussolini meekly submitting to rebuffs from the League
of Nations and persisting in maintaining Italian membership in the League? Is it possible that the
dictator utilizes that he cannot win
against the combined economic
forces of the world and is appalled
at the unanimity of the verdict of
condemnation of his course pronounced by the moral opinion of the world? Is it not possible that Mussolini would be greatly relieved
in mind if he could find a reasonable excuse for withdrawing his forces from Africa, and that he hopes to induce the League of Nations to formulate terms of peace
which might save his face and Italy
from an inevitable disaster?

Mussolini has gambled with fortune from the beginning of his sensational career. The dice have been turning against him for several years. The form of Socialism
he set up in Italy has not produced
the expected results. His corporate
state has not created prosperity in
either the primary or the manufacturing industries. There has been
a deep business depression throughout the land. At the beginning of his career the cry of the people was
"What a man!" The dictator knew
that his influence was waning and
his position in peril. So in order to postpone a possible revolution he
made what probably will be his last
desperate cast of the dice. He has created at tremendous expense a
vast army and an impressive navy.

To divert attention from impending internal chaos Mussolini declared that he must make war with
his soldiers and his modern war
machinery against some nation, and
chose as the victim of his ambition
the weakest and the least offensive nation within striking distance. No doubt he considered the League of Nations merely a paper organization whose purposes were only nominally impressive. The League
did nothing in one important case.
It was sure to prove impotent in
his case. But in his case it happened that the League was not without leadership and that with leadership it might be capable of action.
The gambler has made his last

desperate cast. The fate of a nation
is at stake. The climax is certain.
The probable exclamation of the
world may be not what a man, but
what a fool!

—Byron.

A semester, the greater master he is
in his art, the worse man he is—Bacon.

"What a man!" rapturously exclaimed Ma Kennedy a day or so
after she had been joined in the state of holy matrimony to a man
whose name we forget, but whose
profession was that of an evangelist. Ma and Amy have dropped
out of the press news and the pictures almost as completely as the
now unknown and unnamed Sky
Pilot—a term which should be permissible here, inasmuch as it is the title of one of the most interesting stories of the father of Prof. King
Gordon.

What a man! must be the ex-
clamation of almost everybody who
reads the daily news of the wonderful exploits and adroit manoeuvres
of Signor Mussolini, the uncrowned
King of Italy. The Council of the League of Nations has found the
evangelist and unprovoked war upon Ethiopia. Mussolini declares that he is not making war upon the Abyssinians, that his legions are
merely peacefully penetrating
Ethiopia for the good and welfare
of the Ethiopians and establishing
in their hearts and souls the blessings of Roman culture; that such
unavoidable incidents as the political creed of almost helpless men,
women and children are merely incidental to his beneficent designs.

The League has declared that Mussolini is an international out-
law and that Italy under his leadership is no longer worthy of membership in the international organization created for the purpose
of maintaining peace throughout
the world. Consider the situation
and tell us if you can what can be made of it. Some of the old comic opera composers might make something interesting and profitable out
of it, but the actual situation defies
explanation by any sane person except upon a humorous basis. Italy
has been practically kicked out of the League. If her representatives
had any sense of human or national
dignity they would get out and stay
out, but after they are practically
kicked out they come back and ask
for more rebuffs.

The agents of Mussolini have
been told to clear out of Ethiopia,
but they are merely a demonstration
by an Italian police force thrown
into the country for the purpose
of maintaining the law and establishing order. They say that technically wherever there is an Italian

B.C. REJOICING IS RESTRAINED

Provincial Government Facing Two By-Elections With Mixed Feelings

Canada's general election remained the chief topic of discussion in Provincial circles yesterday. In between the lines of brief and formal gratification expressed by the B.C. Government over the success of the Liberal Party at the polls was a deal of anxious speculation on national and provincial aspects of the results at the polls.

Voicing the formal comment of the B.C. Government, Premier Pattullo said:

"The result is very gratifying. We will now have an opportunity, with a fixed state of government at Ottawa for the next four years, to discuss questions of common concern to the provinces and the Dominion."

B.C. SEATS VACANT

Informal and far less guarded comment was being offered in quarters close to the Government. Apparent defeat of Mayor G. G. McGee, K.C., and A. M. Manson, K.C. Liberal stalwarts in Vancouver ridings, came in part as a blow to the provincial pride, no less than the thought that Vancouver-Burrard and Omineca seats are vacant in the B.C. Legislature and must soon be filled.

British Columbia Liberals, it was seen, had, with the help of one Independent at Comox-Alberni, merely held the same strength in the Federal Parliament, while most other provinces were recording massive victories for the administration to be formed by R. H. W. L. Mackenzie King. Marked C.C.P. strength in Coast areas was another factor not entirely foreseen.

RUMORS AFLOAT

Behind the scenes it was being unofficially said that Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, defeated in East Kootenay, may be offered the next term as Lieutenant Governor of this Province, and that the former Provincial member for Omineca, Mr. Manson, might seek a place on the bench rather than return to ask for the seat he voluntarily relinquished.

There was no confirmation of early reports that the B.C. Government might call an early poll in Vancouver-Burrard and in Omineca, and Premier Pattullo reiterated the fact that no decision has yet been reached on the subject of the impending by-elections.

Over all loomed the shadow of a national administration so strong that it can exercise untrammelled discretion as to how far it will go to help the provinces by loans or reduction of revenues or otherwise.

BY-ELECTIONS

Physical reasons may retard Provincial by-elections in Vancouver-Burrard and Omineca possibly until the new year. With a shifting

Offer Reward in Connection With False Fire Calls

A REWARD of $25 will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of turning in false fire alarms, the City Council decided last night.

Alderman Walter Luney, chairman of the fire wardens, related that eighteen false alarms had been received since June 21. He told the council that it cost at least $15 each time $50,000 worth of fire equipment was driven out of the central station.

population in the Vancouver City riding, present voters' lists are said to be incomplete, and new lists would require to be posted for thirty days. Nominations may not be held within twenty-one days of a court of revision, and these occur monthly on the third Monday in each period.

While the Province could act immediately on the present lists, the unofficial expectation is that it will wait until January or later before opening these polls. The date of the by-elections will be influenced by the more populous riding of Burrard in any event, though this may mean a snow-bound campaign for those in the northern riding.

SAYS EVIDENCE NOT THE TRUTH

Witness Contradicts Himself At Trial of Four Indians For Murder

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (P)—Conflicting testimony by Joseph Edwards, thirty-two-year-old crippled Indian, featured today's hearing of the murder trial of Richardson, Eneas, Alex and Joseph George. The four Indian brothers are charged with the murder of Dominion Indian Constable F. H. Gishbourne, who was slain with Provincial Constable Percy Carr when they went to the reservation near Merritt, B.C., in connection with the stabbing of Eneas' wife more than a year ago.

Edwards was the witness who produced Gishbourne's revolver after police were unable to find it, at the Vernon trial last June, when Richardson, Eneas and Alex were convicted. The Court of Appeal subsequently set aside the conviction and a new trial ordered, in which Joseph was charged with his brothers.

When asked if he had given evidence which had been read to him and if it was true, Edwards said it was not true and he knew it was not true.

"I have been asked too many

Greek Monarchy Restored by Coup

In a swift Royalist coup d'etat, Greece rejected her eleven-year-old republic and restored the monarchy. It is understood that King George II will wait till he hears the result of the nation-wide plebiscite, which takes place on November 3, before he returns to Athens. Above, left, is General George Kondylis, Royalist leader, who seized the reins of government in a swift and bloodless stroke. times. I told them I didn't know anything about this affair," Edwards said when Attorney-General Gordon Sloan asked him for an explanation. "When you told Mr. Barber (the Indian agent) you didn't know anything about this case were you telling the truth?" Mr. Sloan asked.

NOT THE TRUTH

"I was not telling the truth," witness replied. "I want to tell the truth but you keep on asking me and I don't get a chance to speak," Edwards added. The case is continuing.

ACQUITTED OF 'KIDNAPPING'

Magistrate Finds No Offence Was Proved and Warns Boy as to Behaviour

Jack Harris and Hugo Tew, charged with having seized Robert Christianson unlawfully and detained him, were acquitted of the charge by Police Magistrate Jay, yesterday, in the city court.

A decision as to what action will be taken with regard to Thomas Stillwell and Clifford Eastwood, who were charged in connection with the case on another count, will be dealt with today. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, in view of the decision of the magistrate in the first case, said that he did not feel like prosecuting the second charge. It would only be carried on if the informant, John Christianson, wished to proceed.

When the matter comes up today, the question will arise whether a private prosecution will be carried on. Gordon Cameron, who appears for all the defendants in the two cases, will be informed today what is the decision as to a private prosecution.

BOY IS RECALLED

In court yesterday, some witnesses were recalled, including the boy Robert Christianson, who denied that he had pulled up flowers or that he had thrown stones on the night of September 26, the day of the alleged offence.

He admitted, however, that he had, since the taking of evidence, continued to call the name "scab" as he had done before.

Mr. Cameron, addressing the court, said that the boy was not to be believed. The case was not one of kidnapping at all. It really fell under the heading of an old English offence which was akin to an assault. The boy was an offender in calling the objectionable names and in his acts, and was on the verge of becoming an incorrigible. He contended that the accused were within the rights given under the law of detaining the boy in order to give him into the hands of the police for his actions. There was no violence used towards the boy, and in common law the accused were justified in protecting their property.

Mr. Harrison felt that if the evidence of Mrs. Connors was to be taken, and he thought it was the correct version of what happened, there was forcible seizure of the boy. He held that a police officer only could arrest where there was suspicion that an offence had been committed. The private individual could only arrest if a person were found committing an offence. He submitted the apprehension of the youth was not justified.

MAGISTRATE'S ADVICE

The magistrate pointed out that the boy had rendered himself very objectionable in the neighborhood by calling "scab" "rats," and other objectionable names. He added that he did not believe the unfortunate boy was to blame, but the responsibility fell upon the parents.

He expressed the hope, before concluding, that this objectionable practice would cease.

The magistrate said he had no doubt the boy threw stones at the

the boy was doing unlawful acts. He had made himself liable to arrest by a private person without a warrant. The accused had shown great restraint and had not taken the law into their own hands as many would have done under the circumstances and have given the boy a thrashing. Mr. Harris exercised control and immediately called the police to take the boy under control. He, therefore, dismissed the charge.

He was survived by his widow, at home.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan, Dean of Columbia, officiating. The remains will later be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

CANADIAN NICKEL IN WORLD INDUSTRY

THE ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY

YOUR ELECTRIC SUPPLY IS CHEAPER — MORE DEPENDABLE BECAUSE OF NICKEL

THAT SURGING CATARACT which but yesterday dashed madly down its rocky bed in the depths of the forest, today lights our homes and streets and turns our factory wheels. This is the age of "white power", and in the generation, transmission and practical application of electric energy, Nickel plays an important part.

In the huge intake gates through which the water is admitted to the penstocks in the modern hydro-electric development, Monel Metal is used for the valve seats and facings, to resist corrosion, erosion and wear. Over fifty-five tons of Monel Metal have been used for this purpose in one single development.

For years the size of generators was limited due to the lack of a material strong enough to withstand the tremendous internal stresses. The giant generators of today have been made possible because of the unusual strength of Nickel Steel when used for highly-stressed parts. In the transmission of electric power, Monel Metal is used for insulator units, switching equipment, and in outdoor substation high tension equipment.

Because of Nickel, electrical machinery today is smaller in proportion to capacity; electrical appliances such as ranges, toasters and percolators are more efficient; your electric supply is cheaper and more dependable.

In the development of new Nickel alloys to meet the ever greater demands which modern industry makes upon materials, our sales and research organizations have worked hand in hand with all branches of industry. New uses for Nickel mean increased markets for Canadian Nickel the world over. The increasing sale of Canadian Nickel brings new money to Canada. It helps to quicken our whole industrial life.

"Nickel—Key to World Progress", an interesting booklet dealing with the uses of Nickel in daily life may be had without charge by writing to the Company at 25 King Street West, Toronto.

Brazil Will Have A Smaller Army
RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 15 (AP).—Although virtually every important world power is increasing its armaments, the finance commission of the Chamber of Deputies approved today a slash in Brazil's standing army. The proposal would remove 3,000 men from the army, leaving it at 65,152, in an effort to save about $300,000 in the 1936 budget.

zinc, aluminum, manganese, lead, iron ore, tungsten and nickel.
Several delegates raised the important question of what will be the attitude of countries who are not members of the League when the embargo on key products is actually put into force. Thus the committee is anxious concerning the policy to be pursued by the United States, Germany, Japan and Brazil.

While the economic sub-committee was at work, another group met to press the placing of financial sanctions against Italy, approved yesterday by the League as a whole. Statistics were presented the economic body to show that Germany and the United States export more to Italy by a wide margin than any other countries.

JUST STARTING
The British g'e importance to the deterrent effect upon Italy of a policy of "buy nothing from Italy," or a policy of destroying Italy's exports.

"Today's action is merely a curtain raiser," said Anthony Eden, Britain's Minister for League Affairs, as he emerged from the meeting.

The interdiction of importations from Italy will be taken up tomorrow.

A list of key products drawn up by the economic committee includes the following Italian imports from League countries: Manganese, chromium, iron, tungsten, molybdenum, vanadium, nickel.

OTHER IMPORTS
A second list includes products Italy must get abroad but whose supply is not controlled by League states: Aluminum, bauxite, steel, zinc.

A third list includes nitric acid, nitrates and rubber and a fourth list, ships, vehicles, pack animals and mechanical tools.

Uncertainty surrounds the statute of coal, gasoline, cotton and copper. Unconfirmed reports said the committee prefers not to pass upon these before determining whether Italy can obtain them from the United States and Germany.

ITALY DEFIANT
ROME, Oct. 15 (AP).—Italian Government spokesmen said tonight Italy would keep her course in Africa regardless of League of Nations sanctions and would fight "even a European war" if compelled.

These declarations—in which the spokesmen, however, declined to predict war in Europe—came after a day in which the holy city of Aksum, called the spiritual rock of the Ethiopian empire, was occupied peacefully by the second Italian army corps under General Pietro

SHINGLE MILL TO BE REBUILT HERE
McCartor Shingle Company, Ltd., mill at 2418 Rock Bay Avenue, is to be rebuilt immediately at a cost of $3,000. After hearing favorable reports from the fire chief and building inspectors, the City Council last evening agreed to grant a building permit. Construction will be of wood and corrugated iron, the same type of building as the one destroyed by fire last summer.

TWO KAMLOOPS MEN HURT IN ACCIDENT
KAMLOOPS, Oct. 15 (AP).—Ernest Anderson and James Yates, of Vancouver, are in Royal Inland Hospital here suffering from head and leg injuries received late yesterday, when struck by an automobile on a downtown street.

NEW BUILDING TO BE ALLOWED

City Council Rezones Triangle at Junction for Station Annex

At a cost of $3,000, the Imperial Oil, Limited, will be permitted to erect an addition to their service station at Oak Bay Junction. The City Council made this possible last evening by amending the zoning by-law in respect to the triangle bounded by Oak Bay Avenue, Fort Street and Morrison Street.

The objection from property owners came from Harold Lovick, 1625 Fort Street. Through Sydney Child, he claimed the value of his property would decrease.

After hearing Frank Turley, manager here for the Imperial Oil, Limited, and examining plans of the proposed addition, the council decided to rezone the area.

do all the speechifying at the public send-off in Seattle this morning, and that was just what he was "going to let you Canadians do when I arrive in Victoria. Letting someone else do the talking is the Vice-President's personal policy as well as his official one."

Mr. Garner represents the President of the United States on the Philippine Islands to attend the inauguration of the new Assembly and see the dawn of independence break there. He is as democratic in his personal life as he is in the fullest political significance of the word.

He proved to be an ideal host and told about his early life as a farmer in Texas and how Champ Clark had nicknamed him "Cactus Jack" over thirty years ago.

A story concerning the Vice-President which The Associated Press carried about the time he was leaving home was to the effect that he was wearing a 98-cent watch which he intended to exhibit in Japan when he arrived there and which might give the manufacturers some idea of what can be turned out in America at a cheap price when called upon. The watch was guaranteed for a year, and was keeping perfect time. He had won it in a wager on a baseball game in which he had backed the Washington team, which, he said, was a proper gesture of civic pride. Mr. Garner is equally charming as his distinguished husband, who early as it was when he graciously bowed Victoria press representatives out of their suite at the conclusion of the interview, intended to retire for the night.

He arrived by train yesterday and had been going hard throughout the day, led hither and yon by reception committees, particularly by the mayor, who, although a good Republican, was evidently well disposed toward a good Democrat.

DESSIE, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas).—Ras Muligeta, Ethiopian War Minister, was on his way to the Northeastern Ethiopian war base tonight, accompanied by European military experts, who will place in execution a new plan to meet Italy's "civilized warfare" offensive.
The War Minister's European advisers have convinced him it is urgently necessary to distribute Ethiopia's three main armies in such a way as to leave no important route to the heart of the empire vulnerable.
Although the identities of the War Minister's European technical advisers were not revealed, they were believed to be the Swedish and Belgian officers who recently refused to heed their Governments' recalls and choose, instead, to offer their services to the Ethiopian Emperor.

Gowns From Paris Are Admired at Style Show

Flattering Lines and Becoming Colors Are Distinctive Features of Beautiful New Creations Imported by Angus Campbell, Limited

As the seasons come and go and the more frivolous clothes of summer give way to autumn's vagaries of the mode, interest centres in the activities of the great dress-design houses of the world. From Paris has come to Angus Campbell, Ltd., a lovely collection of gowns, which were shown for the first time at two fashion show presentations in the store yesterday morning and afternoon.

PARIS MODELS

Paris favors the front fullness and drapery for evening wear, as expressed in the elegant gown of fraise crepe, a Lucien Lelong model worn by Miss Morrison, with the vertical shirring in front from the low neckline below the hips, and at the back the decollete cut to the waistline. Similar shirring marked the front of the Molyneux model, of bottle green crushless velvet, worn by Mrs. Hawkes, the back of the low decollete being marked below the waistline with a huge bow of gold lame. This suggestion of a bustle added pliancy to a number of the creations designed for the slim "jeune fille," and was exemplified in another striking evening gown of flame and gold shot silk, the subtle draping across the bottom of the low-cut back extending into huge slightly-stiffened loops.

BELTS GLITTER

Lanvin shows a penchant for striking belt motifs, one exquisite dinner gown from this famous house, worn by Miss Knapton, being of black crushless velvet, with square-cut angel sleeves, the only relief being in the deep belt of punched gold leather. Another ultra-smart Lanvin model for the cocktail or bridge party of plain black crepe with very full bishop sleeves was relieved by a broad belt of gold leather.

Subtle drapery on the skirt was of the Vionnet model of heavy black crepe-black satin, worn by Miss

Ball, the cross-over bodice terminating at the back in a cowl effect across the decollete. That popular shade, Parme violet, was allied with silver in the lovely gown inspired by Maggy Rouff, worn by Mrs. Thomson, shirring in front and halter effect at the back. A further intriguing note was added by the split panel hung from the waist and forming a double-train effect.

GRECIAN INFLUENCE

The Grecian influence is playing a big part in evening gowns and one exquisite frock of white fancy crepe, embroidered all over with gold medallions, took on color with a double panel of deep velvet triple sheer, shirred to the shoulder line at the back and falling in graceful lines to the floor, while on the left shoulder a huge bunch of violets in two tones repeated the color motif. Glitter adds to the glamour of many gowns, as in the smart evening frock of grape-bloom crepe marked with a broad belt of silver leather caught with a hasp-like clasp and chain of silver, a similar fastening appearing at the back of the unusual cape-like drapery of the grape-bloom, lined with vintage red—suggestive of the medieval colorings of a painting by Titian.

Gorgeous evening gowns are complemented by gorgeous wraps and one luxurious coat of black velvet was lined throughout with heavy white satin, had very full dolman sleeves and a flattering stand-up collar of white lapin. The medieval note inspired the finger-tip length wrap of luscious green velvet, with its fullness shirred into a deep square yoke, and the very full sleeves marked at the elbow with a double cording. Another sumptuous coat of green velvet bore the unmistakable imprint of Russia—in its very full bloused back heavily shirred into the deep shirred and corded bolero collar, and in the full sleeves with its deep shirred wrists.

LACE CLOSE SECOND

Lace runs velvet a close second in the race for popularity. The formal occasions, cocktail parties, wedding guest wear and similar "dressing up" occasions, lace lends itself in a fascinating array of colorings. Ericson, potpourri dress, with lovely color of a sieve-like dinner gown of lace, its coat boasting full sleeves caught into a tight-fitting elbow length cuff, buttoned with self buttons. Another "many-purposes" gown of lace was a Parme violet tone, with a huge choux of flowers in three tones at the front of the V-neckline, while a hostess gown of Tuscan red introduced a dyed lace yoke and emplacements as a new note.

COCKTAIL GOWNS

The ubiquitous cocktail plays such a big role in the modern social calendar that some of the loveliest gowns are designed for the cocktail hour. One of gold lace was relieved at the waistline with a graceful slash of Nile green, and had long very full sleeves caught into the wrists.

Black is always elegant, and another stunning gown of heavy black crepe-black satin depended for its chic upon a clever use of the two sides of the material, skillfully pleated in the front of the bodice and on the front panel of the graceful skirt.

Sports clothes fill a big place in the smart woman's wardrobe, and the Golfex house sponsored a well-cut frock of wool in a plain effect in tones of beige and rust, with a jaunty hardkerchief collar of ochre. A most useful two-piece outfit for sports wear included a woolen frock in a two-toned blue check and a becoming coat of plain blue frieze with a handsome collar of lynx.

SUITS OF IMPECCABLE TASTE

Suits are always in impeccable taste, and one very elegant tailored Golfex suit of black bore the military influence in its trimming of black cire braid, frogs and buttons. Knitted suits are smarter and more ornamental than ever, as evidenced by the attractive imported two-piece suit of camel knit in novel patterns. Checks and stripes and plaid effects are dominant in knitted wear, some lovely color combinations being effected. Coats also take on plaid and check designs, one striking sports coat in the Balkan shape being a Burberry model in black, red and blue checks. A smart combination is that of a woolen sports frock with swag coat of fur, lined with the same material as the frock.

For rather more formal occasions coats depend on fineness of material, fur trimmings and flattering lines. A velvet-diagonal model in circle was collared with luxurious brown fur, a coat of laurel green boucle tweed boasted a collar of lynx, while another stunning coat for formal wear was of black velvet with an upstanding collar and revers of Persian lamb.

NORMANDIE HATS

The streamlines of the crack French liner Normandie have inspired the hats for the coming Fall and Winter and many variations of the Normandie model were shown in finest fur fells, velvets and other fabrics, both for formal wear. For sports wear, the famous Concorde hats, in English make, in finest fur fells in a wide range of lovely tones complement the knit suits, woolen frocks and street suits.

Toronto Speaker To Address Club Here October 29

C. E. Silcox, M.A., of Toronto, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Women's Canadian Club to be held on Tuesday, October 29. Mr. Silcox is general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada. He has written a number of books, and has contributed to several publications. It was on the strength of the impression he made when addressing the Women's Canadian Club in Toronto on "The Meaning of Citizenship in the Americas" that he was invited by the Association of Canadian Clubs to address a few of the Canadian Clubs in the West, so members of the local organization may look forward to a specially inspiring talk.

DEANS-WRIGHT

Of much interest to local friends of the bridegroom, who formerly lived in Victoria, was the wedding at St. John's Anglican Church, North Vancouver, on Saturday evening, between Phyllis Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, of North Vancouver, and Mr. Charles Warbrick Deans, eldest son of Mrs. A. D. Musket, of Guelph, and the late Ralph V. Deans, of Summerland. Rev. H. P. Barrett officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white lace cut on princess lines with small lace turban to match. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley. Attending her was her sister, Miss Barbara Wright, wearing a blue lace dress and a turban of net and velvet, and Miss Peggy Patterson, similarly gowned in yellow lace. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and blue delphinium. The best man was Mr. George Musket, cousin of the groom. Ushering on guests were Mr. Roger Wright and Mr. Gilbert Clay. Later a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Deans left for a honeymoon on Vancouver Island, the bride traveling in a smart Venetian tile suit with black accessories. On their return, they will reside in Vancouver.

Wedding Is Of Interest In Victoria

A wedding of interest to the bridegroom's friends in Victoria was solemnized on Saturday evening at Ryerson United Church, Vancouver, when Ellen Irene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ramage, of Vancouver, became the bride of Mr. Terence Charles Holmes, of Ottawa, youngest son of the late Mr. William C. Holmes, formerly of the Indian Civil Service, and of the late Mrs. Holmes, of Victoria.

During the signing of the register, Miss Catherine McEwen sang "At Dawning," while Mr. Walter Gilman played the wedding music. Miss Doris Barton was maid of honor, while a little niece of the groom, Miss Elizabeth Holmes, of Victoria, was a charming flower girl. Mr. Ian Campbell was best man, while ushering guests to their places were Mr. Ferrier Ross, Mr. Alfred Buckland, Mr. Robert Craig and Mr. Ted Baynes.

LOVELY BRIDE

White velvet flowers accented the neckline of the wedding gown of white fur satin. Long sleeves were close-fitting at the wrist, while the skirt emphasized the new mode in featuring fullness at the front. Surmounted by a bandeau of pearls and orange blossoms, the bridal veil of fine Brussels net cascaded in flattering folds over the graceful dress train. The bride's flowers were a sheaf of Hollywood roses and lily of the valley.

Silver-tone-haze blue fashioned the contrasting frock of the maid of honor. The jacket of the velvet model featured a large padded collar and rhinestone buttons finished the waistline. Her hat was of silver lace and lame leaves. A shower bouquet of snapdragons, candy pink dahlias and pale yellow marguerites completed her ensemble.

WEDDING RECEPTION

At the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Lona Bridges, assisted the groom, from Victoria, assisted Mrs. Ramage to receive the guests. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. George Anderson, of Anacortes, Wash., and Mrs. H. C. Holmes. The wedding cake centred the tea table and was surrounded by pink tulle. Shimmery candelabra held ivory tapers and pink rosebuds were placed in silver holders.

The couple will spend their honeymoon traveling East via Chicago and will later make their home in Ottawa, where the groom is a member of the geological survey staff. For traveling the bride donned a brown Vandeyke needlepoint suit featuring a hip-length coat with a scarf collar of Kolinsky squirrel. Accessories were also in brown and she wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses and bronze chrysanthemums.

Jane Dixon Says:

A LARGE PART OF THE JOY OF HOME-MAKING IS THE STRUGGLE FOR IT—THAT IS, STARTING TOGETHER FROM SCRATCH

Often I'm discouraged about women. We women insist on heading the parade when, what we should do, is to take whatever part in the parade we can.

Here's a woman who loves a man to the nth degree, and is loved by him, but she couldn't marry because she wanted to buy some special furniture for the home, and in order to acquire those sticks she had to put off her marriage.

She had a job. If she kept that job for another several months—more furniture for the home. It didn't work out. The man was not so much interested in the special brand of maple furniture the woman figured would make her happy in her home.

Now the man has found another woman. The new find doesn't ask questions. The man tells me she knows on good authority that he is able to provide a comfortable home. He tells me he heard so much about furniture that he'd be glad to live in a tent with a woman who thought more about a husband than she did about period furniture.

Listen to this:

Dear Jane Dixon:

Our wedding was fixed for June, but the girl wanted to put it off until September, because she saw a dining-room set she'd be able to buy if she went on with her job.

I tried to tell her that marriage was not dependent on the kind of table from which you took your daily bread, but the important thing was what you brought to that table outside of the way-it looked and the food that was on it.

I was able to provide the food, but not the kind of special table she wanted.

It slowed me up, and on the slow-up I found a girl who was willing to go along on what table I could provide. She's not a clinging vine either. She has a good job and we both know she has to keep it.

Now Miss Dixon, what I want to know is: does the first girl look for a table or is she looking for a husband?

If she has to put off our marriage from June until September for a table, is she the wife who would play the game?

Suppose we didn't have any table at all—these things can happen—what then?

I know women are independent these days, but men have some independence too, and I'll be darned if I am going to step down for a gate-leg table—Jerry.

JERRY IS O.K.

Answer: Jerry, you're great. Don't stop. Take the girl who thinks more about husbands than the does about tables.

I should not advise you so unless you had told me that the second girl has a job and is prepared to keep on working. The marriage business these days is pretty much fifty-fifty—and we sink or swim together. We agree on what we need, and go on from there.

If it will be any help to you, Jerry, I'm a newspaper woman married to an army officer, and we've been ten years trying to acquire the few things we really want in our home. More fun!

A large part of the joy of home-making is the struggle for it—that is, starting together more or less from scratch, and filling up the empty spaces with worthwhile things as we can afford them.

Describes Scenes of Of Loyalty During Jubilee in London

Dr. J. S. Plaskett Gives "Impressions of England" in Address to Capacity Audience of Women's Canadian Club Members at Crystal Garden

JUBILEE Week, with its overwhelming demonstration of the loyalty and affection of the British people for their King and Queen, was singled out by Dr. J. S. Plaskett as the most memorable incident of an eventful several months' visit to the Old Land described by him yesterday afternoon for a capacity audience of Women's Canadian Club members gathered in the Crystal Garden auditorium.

"We shall always rejoice that we were privileged to be in London during that time to see the joyous, cheerful, and loving loyalty of the great crowds that gathered for the celebration," he commented.

With fidelity of detail, subsequently amplified by some very fine lantern-slides made from photographs he took during the celebration, Dr. Plaskett reproduced some of his impressions and observations. Thanks to the fact that Canada House had reserved a block of seats on the Mall for Canadians wishing to see the Royal procession, he and elicited from Dr. Plaskett the remark that the English weather seemed to have the happy faculty of always being at its best for such occasions. The precision, of the police arrangements, the orderliness and good nature of the vast crowds, also were noted.

Loud speakers all along the route made it possible for the crowds to follow the services in St. Paul's, even better than the congregation actually present; and in the same way the approach of the Royal procession was heralded long before it came in sight, followed by wave on wave of cheering from the ranks of the onlookers. Everyone was excited and tremulous as their Majesties passed. From their seats Dr. and Mrs. Plaskett had a very fine view of the procession, although, as it was on the return from St. Paul's, the military part had dispersed.

OTHER PHASES

Briefly there were also described some of the other phases of the celebration, which continued for a whole week in a London gayly decorated even in the poorest slum districts, with all the principal buildings food-lit, and with the streets packed from wall to wall with the jubilant crowds each evening after all wheeled traffic was suspended. "It must have been a wonderful thing for strangers from other countries where there is political unrest and disaffection of all kinds to see in London during that week such demonstrations of loyalty and affection for the King and Queen."

Dr. Plaskett, who concluded a tribute to the "selfless devotion" shown by their Majesties during their twenty-five years' reign by reading an eloquent editorial from The Evening News and Mail.

STATE OF ENGLAND

By special request Dr. Plaskett spoke briefly on "conditions" in the Old Land. Although undoubtedly England had suffered from depression, one never heard of depression mentioned, and so far as England was concerned, the back of the depression seemed broken; she was leading the rest of the world in forgetting the depression; the national budget had been balanced for the past two years, and the surplus was being used to reduce taxation. Canadians who growled at an income tax, which at the worst did not amount to more than 5 per cent, would not face with such equanimity as the English a tax four times this amount or the fifteen shillings per horsepower, which is the British tax on motor cars.

An indication of England's happy economic state might be found in the fact that she had restored salary cuts of all civil servants, shops, restaurants and theatres were crowded, and building of new houses was proceeding at a phenomenal pace all over the country to replace slums. There had been considerable criticism of the monotony of the design adopted, however, streets and streets of houses having a deadly sameness in appearance, although the living conditions they provided were immeasurably better than the houses they replaced.

VISITS PARIS

A ray description was given of a nine-days' visit in Paris, where he went to attend the triennial meeting of the International Astronomical Union held in July. As guests of the French authorities, he had received assistance from the government toward the entertainment of the visitors, the scientists from other countries had, in addition to the interesting sessions, a round of excursions, banquets and balls which, for excellence of organization, proved something of a surprise to the English guests. Lavish entertainment was also provided for the wives.

The gathering had the formal recognition of the government, Mr. Lebrun, the Premier, and the French Minister of Education opening the meetings of the general assembly. French was the official language, but the proceedings of most of the committees were in English, translated into French. There were the two official languages. The Dutch and Swedish delegates were exceptional in that they nearly all spoke, in addition to their own language, English, German and French.

THE SLIDES

In the excellent series of slides (the lantern being operated by Mr. Huxtable) were pictures of Piccadilly Circus, Burlington House, Lower Regent Street, Trafalgar Square and Canada House, Admiralty Arch, St. James Park, several pictures of the Royal procession and the Jubilee crowds, Whitehall, the Cenotaph, Westminster Abbey, the Parliament Buildings, the Embankment and a pavement artist, the Strand and law courts, Fleet Street, Ludgate Hill and other London scenes.

Reviewing the highlights of a 4,000-mile motor tour made subsequently, Dr. Plaskett in the latter part of the illustrated series of the lecture showed views of some of Britain's historic cathedrals and cathedral towns: Canterbury, Winchester, Salisbury, Wells, Gloucester, Exeter, Ely, Lincoln, Durham, Edinburgh and Balmoral Castles and other Scottish views.

Thomson, of Burnaby. The ceremony was performed in a setting of Autumn flowers arranged in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. S. Henderson officiated.

The bride, an affiliate of Kappa

Kappa Gamma fraternity, was attired in a smartly-tailored suit of rose cloth. The sleeves were close fitting and other details of the dress were in harmony with their simple lines. Her brimmed hat was of stitched navy silk taffeta, finished with a white buckle and she carried a colonial bouquet of pale pink roses. Dr. McKay gave his daughter in marriage. The best man was George Thomson, brother of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson left for a honeymoon in the South, during which they will motor to California. The bride donned a seal fur coat over her wedding dress. They will reside in Victoria.

Miss Leedham Is Bride of Mr. S. Pocock

The wedding took place in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, between Miss Leedham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Leedham, of Courtenay, and Mr. Stanley Pocock, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pocock, Lamson Street, Esquimalt. Rev. Alan Gardiner performed the ceremony, and the wedding marches were played by Mr. C. F. Boulter.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a charming frock of white georgette, and an embroidered net veil worn with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of gladioli and asters in pastel shades, and the flower girl was the bride's little niece, Kathleen Willard, in a dainty frock of blue georgette and carrying a Colonial bouquet. Mr. Alfred Atherton supported the groom.

SMALL RECEPTION

A small reception of relatives and a few intimate friends was held after the service at the home of the groom's parents, where flowers in great variety were attractively arranged, and a three-tier cake centred the tea table.

Among the wedding gifts was a silver entrée dish, and a silver pyrex plate from the office staff of A. R. Minnis, Yates Street, where the bride had been employed for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard, of Langford, were guests at the wedding.

Trafalgar Day

Tea to Be Held On October 26

A special meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Navy League was held yesterday afternoon at headquarters, Bastion Building, with Mrs. Sidney Wood, the president, in the chair, and nine members present. Owing to the tag day being held on October 19, the Trafalgar Day tea has been postponed to October 26, when the Women's Auxiliary will be "at home" to the public from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon at the Rainbow Sea Cadet headquarters, Outer Wharf.

During the afternoon an interesting ceremony will be the presentation to the corps of the shield given by the I.O.D.E. for the most prominent corps in British Columbia. Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, vice-president of the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., will make the presentation, and interested members of the I.O.D.E. are given a special invitation to be present. A programme is being arranged under the direction of Lieutenant-Commander P. W. Tribe, and the building will be open for inspection. Tea will be served to all guests.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held on November 29, the regular October meeting being cancelled.

FEATHER IN HER HAT

by JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER IX

Lee drove the car as near as possible to the entrance of the terminal building and told Ann, "I'll be back in a minute or two." He darted through the open door of the building.

Like giant birds chasing their own tails, two planes circled the field at an altitude of several thousand feet, while not more than two thousand feet up a light-seeing "bus" was just coming in from one of its many trips over the city.

Ann sighed. Twice in her life she had been up in a plane. Her total flying time, she imagined, had been less than ten minutes. And she had seen nothing, of course, except the Edenville fair grounds and, in the distance, Edenville.

"All right, Ann," Lee said, standing just within the doorway, crooking a finger, smiling. Ann got out and went inside where she was introduced to at least half a dozen men and two girls.

"We're in luck," Lee told her. A third girl came up and held out a leather coat.

"That will probably fit," she said. "We're about the same size."

Ann was introduced and informed she was borrowing this girl's coat. It may be a little chilly up there," said Lee, with a sly look at the men.

"Up where?" Suddenly she looked up at him. "Lee—are we going up in an airplane—over Washington?"

Lee nodded, grinning. "Anywhere you say. We're using a borrowed ship. And a sweetheart, if anyone should ask. I flew it to Chicago a month ago."

"Well, thanks, everybody. We'll be back shortly. Ready, Ann?"

She followed Lee through an office, along a hall and out in the open. He took her arm and together they marched across the "porch-like platform and down the steps to the field. . . . Ann was in a state of ecstasy. She was going up with Lee Monday! She looked up at Lee and laughed, a vibrant, joy-

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

NO CHANGE IN SCORING

With the first autumn frosts the older and more volatile crust of the bridge playing body digs into Winter quarters by the side of a bridge table and in grand salon of bridge commences. The land is then filled with moans, groans, and various kinds of glowing sounds, while the divorce curse shoots up alarmingly. At the same time rumors fly thick and fast, fostered by the "knowing ones" about imminent changes in laws, scoring and the system of bidding.

Let me set the restless ones at ease. During the years 1935 and 1936 there will be no changes of any kind in the laws or scoring of rubber contract as published in April, 1935. A code of laws purely for duplicate bridge has been in preparation by the American Bridge League and United States Bridge Association since last April, designed to conform, as closely as technical conditions of the duplicate game permit, to the rubber bridge code. This code probably will be published on November 1, and the only contemplated change from the present scoring of rubber bridge is the dropping of points of honor, at the option of the tournament director, in a duplicate competition, a point to which I personally hold dearly. Furthermore, this change applies to duplicate championship bridge only and is not lawful in rubber bridge.

UNNECESSARY FINESSE

The finesse is not a play to be used when it can possibly be avoided. On this hand, however, the finesse should be used when it is seemingly unnecessary in order to insure keeping one opponent from getting the lead.

It's laid out exactly like—like Edenville

. . . Even the two churches

. . . Oh—you've no idea how much it looks like home. . . .

Her face was pressed against the glass, her whole body acquiring with the wonder of the amazing

similarity. Lee watched her, smiling, fascinated by her utter naturalness. She was as unconscious as

as a child and as eager and spontaneous in her every word and gesture.

Not moving, she cried, "I can even see the little house that was

be ours. . . ."

"We'll go down and have a close look," Lee said. The plane tilted slightly and began a wide circle

around the village below, but the altimeter still registered thirty-five hundred feet. He was looking for something, a golf course, or a baseball diamond, or—

"That will serve," he thought as his eyes unexpectedly came to a wide, open field. "Rough, probably,

but with luck a fair take-off."

The nose of the plane was dropping, steadily. No longer was the town visible to Ann. She swung around.

"I know you think I'm being awfully silly, but you can't begin to understand how like home that place is. It's uncanny, Lee!"

Twice she saw the scattered houses slip by at a distance and each time they seemed larger and even more familiar.

"You're not going to land. . . ."

It was a hope and a plea.

"Why not? We're in no hurry."

The needle of the altimeter moved slowly to the left. "He had deliberately come away from the town

for this, a plan evidently rewarded

by Ann's evident excitement.

Curious how he enjoyed watching her. Curious because he couldn't understand his own feelings toward her. There had been many girls in his life, there would be many more.

But there had never been another quite like this unexpected child, and he doubted there would ever be another. . . . And yet, reasonably,

he could not be seriously interested in her. He was quite sure of this and while the plane came around in a final bank and suddenly levelled off, he reflected that they, he and Ann, had nothing in common but youth and love of life and that most unusual meeting in Mollie

Winlow's living-room. . . . She was fun because she was different;

but it was not a distinction that carried beyond the moment. In a few days he would fly back to the coast and little Ann Rogers would be an episode—a rather pleasant

but quite unimportant episode—of the past. He was glad she was not the sort who would misinterpret his intentions. . . .

"Lee—look! The whole town's turning out. You'd think they never saw a plane before." She laughed delightedly.

Lee bent a little forward, eyes

searching the field ahead.

"Watch it now," he warned quietly;

"this may be a bit rough. . . ."

And while Ann sat rigid, too startled to speak, the plane nosed down,

came up level and a moment later

was bouncing along on two wheels.

Then the tail, skid struck and Lee kicked the brake pedal.

Having turned off the switch, the flir leaped across Ann and unfattened the door. "All right," he said,

"Let's get out and see what the place looks like."

But Ann neither moved or spoke.

She was gazing out at the gathering crowd, struggling with the sense of unreality that came over her as she understood that these people were not the strangers she had expected, but men, women and children she had known all her life.

Ann told her mother in the kitchen after dinner, "I thought we were flying in a circle around Washington and I hadn't any idea that we were flying in a circle around

Edenville. I'm afraid I'll never be able to convince myself this isn't a dream."

Ann's mother was only slightly larger than her daughter, a frail little woman whose hair was as dark as it had been twenty years ago, but there were fine lines under her eyes which, unfortunately, were mirrored by the lines of her rimless glasses. She smiled now, but there was a suggestion of fear in the uncertain movement of her lips. She said, hesitantly, "I'm glad you came,

Ann—but do you have to go back in that airplane?"

"Gilly," Ann gave her mother a quick little kiss and held her off-laughing. "It's as safe and comfortable as riding in father's car.

Really it is mother. . . . And think—two hours after we leave

we'll be in Washin. . . ."

Her mother nodded, unconvinced but knowing the futility of pressing

the point. "Will you send me a wire

as soon as you get there? I won't sleep until I know you're on the ground again."

"Of course," Ann lifted a hand,

grinning. "Listen—Father's letting more come in. They must be piled up three deep by now."

But here mother's alert ears had caught the sound of familiar voices.

"Mr. and Mrs. Manley," she whispered. "They've come to ask about Rita."

Ann's father came to the kitchen.

"Rita's folks are here," he said. "You two can't stick back here by yourselves. The whole town's in the front room."

Ann smiled up at her father,

thinking how much he and Bill Hudson were alike in height and build.

"We're coming, Dad. But can't we have just a tiny little family reunion

before it's too late?" She held out a hand to him and in a moment he had stepped forward and caught

both Ann and her mother in his arms.

"My, but it's nice to see you," Ann said, softly. "I feel as if I'd been

NEW FREIGHT
SHIP DOCKS

Ss. San Francisco Here to Load Lumber—Has Limited Passenger Space

The trim new freighter, Ss. San Francisco, of the French Line, docked here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at Pier A, Ogden Point, to pick up a parcel of lumber before sailing at 5 o'clock last night for the Mainland.

This vessel, one of a fleet of four sister ships built for the North Pacific Coast service in 1930 and 1931, has a length of 411 feet, beam of fifty-two feet and a gross tonnage of 5,751 tons. She has accommodation for nine third-class passengers, and a speed of fourteen knots when fully loaded, and is a sister ship of the San Jose, San Diego and San Antonio. Her commander this voyage is Capt. L. Roulle.

The passenger cabins are all outside and equipped with one or more ports, running water, electric fan, large settee, chest of drawers, etc. There are four double rooms and one single room.

WAR RISK RATES
NOW IN EFFECT

War-risk insurance on shipments by vessels of the Italian Libera Line to any destination is available from the General Insurance Company, Ltd. (Assicurazioni Generali di Trieste and Venice), according to announcement made by General Steamship Corporation, Ltd., Pacific Coast agents for the line. Such insurance is available at the same rates and conditions as for other Italian flag vessels.

By reason of numerous conflicting statements and much confusion with regard to the question of insurance, the company has found it advisable to inform shippers of the above facts.

Physician Reports Work on Treatment in Search of Cure for Dreaded Diabetes

Dr. A. P. Di Valvasone, who has been conducting a private clinic in Shanghai for seventeen years in his study of a treatment for diabetes, passed through Victoria yesterday, aboard the Ss. President Jefferson, en route east to carry on his work in a more effective field.

The doctor was very reticent about his treatment, which he hopes eventually to develop as a definite cure. He said that publicity hampered the task of the physician in this regard, and raised quite often false hopes in those afflicted.

However, the result of his clinic

Lindrum's Scoring Feat in Gold Cup Match Outstanding

When a billiard player "spots" his opponent 7,000 points and then goes to the table three times and wipes out that advantage, you would put him down in the books as a "wizard." Well, that's what Walter Lindrum, world's champion with the cue, did against Clark McConachy, New Zealand star, in The News of the World Gold Cup competition in London. Lindrum and McConachy are on the Mainland at present and will play a series of exhibitions here at the Chamber of Commerce on Friday and Saturday, both afternoons and evenings.

Lindrum showed to his best advantage in that memorable match against the New Zealander. McConachy was determined to take the 7,000 spot and looked ahead to victory as the last week opened, but the tide changed as Lindrum really hit his stride.

SOME REAL SCORING

The Australian ran off the sensational total of 3,900 and then left his opponent a double ball. The next trip to the table he made 1,800, again leaving McConachy safe. After McConachy failed to score, Lindrum tripped to the table a third time and finished with a break of 1,600, which wiped out the big spot "wizard." ## Tigers' Keystone Sacker Guarding Territory

Charley Gehringer, second baseman of Detroit Tigers, is probably the top-notch keystone sacker in his league, combining skill with batting ability. The Magic-Eye made these pictures recently, showing Gehringer, during a game with the New York Yankees, running speedily to his left, to scoop up a potential two-base hit and convert it into a put-out. Note how perfectly Gehringer times his catch and, having the ball, allows his stride and prepares the rifle-like throw to first base to throw out the runner.

Victorian Riding Well Up in Montreal Bike Race—Letourner Injured

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (P)—Hazards of the six-day bicycle oval took their toll here tonight in Montreal's thirteenth race. Letourner was not officially out of the race and could return should physicians let him. In the meantime, teammates of the two men, Mielke and Franco Giorgetti were riding alone, pursuing the leaders. On top of the race were the German speedsters, Gus Kilian and Heinz Vogel, who won the opening race here. They were ahead in points but tied on distance by

Basketball Body Suspends Players For Two Fixtures

Denouncing rough tactics on the playing floor and showing by their action that fights will not be tolerated, executive members of the Victoria and District Basketball League at a meeting held yesterday in The Colonist board room meted out two-game suspensions to Ken Fleming, of the Hoyle-Brown cagers, and Les Bradley, of the Tillamums, for their actions in last Friday's game at the Victoria High School Gymnasium. ## TENNIS NOT A BUSINESS WITH PERRY

Wimbledon Net Champion Leaves Today for Australia—Wife Remains

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN Associated Press Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 15 (P)—Fred Perry, the world's greatest tennis player, becomes Mr. Fredrickson today, as he boards the Lurline tomorrow for his new home in Australia.

"From now on tennis will be just a hobby with me," said the husband of Helen Vinson, the actress, between alternate sprints of parking and bidding farewell today.

"I'm going into business and you really can't make lawn tennis your business, you know. Of course a man must have a hobby so mine will be tennis."

Perry's employers will be Slazenger, Ltd., an Australian sporting concern, and his work will take him from Australia a goodly share of the time into England, Canada and the United States. And he no longer entertains professional ideas.

"That was finished last April," he said. "But I think I can profit better by working up in some business. I am looking into the future in my new work."

Perry hopes to be on the British Davis Cup team next year when he is back in England.

Miss Vinson is not going to Australia with him. She has an unfinished work in the studio here and then will go to England for work this winter, meeting her husband there.

MISS JARVIS WINS DUNLOP CUP MEET

Miss J. Jarvis captured the annual Dunlop Cup competition at the Macaulay Point Golf Club Sunday with a thirty-six hole net score, which showed her out in front of the runner-up, Mrs. C. Denham, by a few strokes. Miss D. Vye took the prize for the hidden-hole competition.

RACE DRIVER KILLED

The race was won by "Red" Campbell, with Fred Moebis finishing second.

TORONTO, Oct. 15 (P)—Although she is the Canadian women's open golf champion and has won more Canadian and Ontario titles than any other woman in history, Miss Ada Mackenzie was never lucky enough to get a hole in one—until yesterday. She took a No. 7 iron on the 135-yard thirteenth hole of the Toronto Ladies' Club and plunked the ball into the tin cup.

FIRST BERTH IN CUP RACE IS AT STAKE

Wednesday League Soccer Elevens Clash in Important Matches Today

Featured by the annual inter-school classic between Spencers and the Hudson's Bay elevens, today's twin soccer bill at the Royal Athletic Park looms up as the most attractive menu of the early season's play by teams in the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League.

Opening the double-header will be the Navy and James Bay Wanderers at 2.15 o'clock, with five score elevens getting into action about 4 o'clock.

The third match on today's mid-week football card will be played at Heywood Avenue, where Kreges will oppose the young Saanich eleven. The kick-off is set for 2.45 o'clock.

With Spencers, Hudson's Bay, Navy and James Bay Wanderers all deadlocked in top berth in the Heywood Cup race, today's matches will draw the color of championship fixtures, with the victors in each instance going into the leadership.

STRENGTHENED LINE-UPS
James Bay Wanderers and the Navy, realising the importance of the match, will row-out strengthened line-ups in hopes of grabbing off two points. Last week the boys from James Bay humbled Saanich United, 5-1, while the sailors went down to a 3-0 setback at the hands of Spencers.

Bitter rivals in the Wednesday League title hunt for many seasons, Hudson's Bay and Spencers will clash in the afternoon double-header. Bays displayed good football last week, when they trounced Kreges, 5-2, and the Diamond "S" aggregation hit their old stride with a 3-0 shutout victory over the Navy.

Players are requested to be at the grounds at 2 o'clock.
Hudson's Bay—Baxter, O'Connell, Wyatt, Williamson, Kennedy, Oakman, Stewart, Robinson, Okell, Stevens and Barnswell. Reserves: Holness and Pith.

Canadian Cage Champions May Perform Friday

If present plans materialize, local cage fans will get their first glimpse of Victoria's Canadian basketball championship aggregation Friday evening at the Victoria High School Gymnasium in an exhibition attraction against three men's senior "B" quintettes. Hoyle-Brown, last season's city and Island champions, West Road, runners-up to the titlholders, and Lake Hill will each oppose the Dominion champions for twenty-minute periods. The exhibition attraction will be the feature encounter on a three-game programme being arranged by the local hoop officials.

TWO TIED AT OAK BAY GOLF COURSE

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Private Coal Mine—It was not until William Leaver was finishing the cellar of his two-story frame house in Shawnee, Oklahoma, that he discovered his property was exactly on top of a rich vein of coal. Digging into the cellar wall he found the coal deposit that has provided him with all fuel for his furnace and cook stoves. All he needs is a pickaxe and wheelbarrow. The mine likewise aircools his house by nature. During the hot summer months there is a perpetual cool draft blowing from the mine, and by keeping his cellar doors open, it circulates through the entire house.

HOCKEY GOVERNORS PURCHASE ST. LOUIS EAGLES

Franchise Passes To League Bosses After One Season

Entire Squad, Players and Rights, Sold for $40,000 After No Offers Were Received—Players Distributed Amongst All Clubs but Black Hawks—Canadiens Benefit

By BOB CAVANARO
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—St. Louis Eagles, plagued by financial difficulties last year, passed from the National Hockey League today when the Board of Governors purchased outright the club's franchise, players and rights.

CARL VOSS
one of the four charter members of the National Hockey League at its inception eighteen years ago.

The Senators failed to operate in the 1934-35 season, resumed operation in 1935-36 at a heavy loss and then transferred the franchise to St. Louis last year. Quinn and his associates couldn't make ends meet in the Missouri city either, so the club was put on the block, but there were no offers.

Frank Calder, president of the league, called an emergency meeting of the board and advocated purchase of the franchise. The purchase price was not announced officially but it was reliably stated each of the eight surviving clubs had contributed $5,000, or a total of $40,000.

EIGHT-CLUB CIRCUIT
The urgency of the meeting was due in part to the fact that the 1935-36 schedule had to be drawn today, including arrangements for the Stanley Cup play-offs. Calder said the league would operate an eight-club circuit, since there is no prospective buyer for the franchise. The regular method of qualifying the three top teams in each division for the play-offs would be in force, he said.

Eighteen players on the St. Louis club's roster of twenty-three found immediate employment. The other five will be placed with minor league clubs, Calder said. The weakest clubs, based on last season's performances, had first call on the ex-Eagles. All but Chicago Black Hawks shared in the player distributions.

PLAYERS DISTRIBUTED
The players were distributed as follows:

New York Americans—Pete Kelly, forward; Ed Finnigan, centre.
Montreal Canadiens—Bill Beveridge, goalie; Irvin Press, forward; Paul Drouin, forward; Henry Lauson, forward.

Detroit—Carl Voss, forward; W. Peterkin, goalie.
New York Rangers—Glen Brydson, forward; Vernon Ayres, defence.

Montreal Maroons—Joe Lamb, forward; Bill Taucher, goalie.
Boston—Bill Cowley, forward; Teddy Graham, defence.

Toronto—Jerry Shannan, Cliff Purpur and J. Dewey, forwards; Mickey Blake, defence.

It's the first time in the league's history that this kind of move was necessary. Had not the league made the purchase it would have meant that the Ottawa syndicate, in the event it declined to put a team on the ice, would have forfeited its franchise and the players would have been turned loose to seek employment.

Later, New York Americans announced they had traded Kelly to Detroit for Voss.

DUTTON SATISFIED
OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 15 (AP)—Manager "Red" Dutton, of the New York Americans, of the National Hockey League, was "just tickled to death" tonight when it became definitely known that Carl Voss and Eddie Finnigan, both with the St. Louis Eagles last year, had become the property of the star-spangled crew.

When the league took over the St. Louis franchise today and distributed the players, Voss originally was assigned to the Detroit Red Wings, but a trade was engineered and Pete Kelly, eagle forward, allotted to the Amerks, goes to Detroit.

Among the amateurs who will try out are Nakina Smith, Sudbury and Oshawa star; Wilf Fleida, defence star with Winnipeg Monarchs last year; "Whitey" Farrant, Toronto; Pete Lewick, a forward with Saskatoon

Wesleys last year; Ab Cronie and Mel Snowden, both of Trail, B.C.; Bill Wright, defenceman from Drumheller, Alta., and several others expected to join the squad later in the week. Smith, Cronie and Snowden tried out here last season under Joe Simpson, who then managed the team.

OPENS ON NOVEMBER 7
The schedule, approved after it was decided that no attempt would be made to operate the St. Louis club, will open on November 7, when the Americans play the Black Hawks at Chicago. The other clubs will move into action the following Saturday and Sunday, November 9 and 10.

CHAMPION TO MEET PARKER IN MAIN MIX

Vancouver Boxer Fights Tonight at Tillicum Gym—Eight Bouts

Finalists in the British Columbia bantamweight championships last fall at the Armouries, Bay Street, Gordon Currie-Smith, sturdy little Vancouver puncher, and Bobby Parker, Canadian Scottish boxer, will share the spotlight tonight on the Victoria Athletic Club's mixed boxing and wrestling programme at the Tillicum gymnasium, Broad Street.

Currie-Smith defeated the local flash in their mix in the provincial title hunt, but Parker's handlers feel confident that their protégé will be able to reverse the call. Both boys are reported to be in the pink of condition for the five-round scrap.

CAREY TO APPEAR
Rex Carey, British Columbia middleweight champion, and Phil Watts, former Winnipeg battler, will mix in the semi-windup billed for five two-minute rounds. Three other bouts will complete the fistfight portion of the card.

Heading the squirming part of the programme will be Reg Hopkins, rugged Victoria matman, and "Scotty" McKay, colorful Vancouver exponent of the wrestling game. They are billed to go four five-minute rounds. Two additional grappling bouts will round out the attractive list of matches. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

There has been a good demand for tickets and indications point to another bumper house being on hand to greet the Vancouver and local boxers and wrestlers.

Will Be With Amerks This Season

HAROLD COTTON NELLS STEWART

Mervin "Red" Dutton, Calgary redhead and pilot of New York Americans, succeeding Joe Simpson, has already added strength to the star-spangled crew he will lead into the next N.H.L. schedule. He bought Hal "Lucky" Cotton from Toronto Maple Leafs and Nels Stewart, burly centre, from Boston Bruins, and they should both materially aid his club. Cotton is a hustling close-checking winger with a never-say-die spirit, and Stewart, big, powerful and smooth, is rated one of the game's best forwards. He can also play defence. Boston got Stewart from Montreal Maroons, and he started in their line-up last season.

JONES STOPS CARROLL IN THE EIGHTH

Vancouver Negro Earns Another Fight With Wallace by Victory

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Sonny Jones, Vancouver negro welterweight flash, tonight defeated Eddie Carroll, of Ottawa, by a technical knockout at the end of the eighth of their scheduled ten-round bout, and carried the fight to meet Gordon Wallace, the champion, in a title go.

Referee Honore Chevrier stopped the match after Carroll, five pounds heavier than Jones' 140½, had absorbed a considerable drubbing and had been knocked down in the eighth for no count.

Carroll started aggressively and had an edge in the first round, but began to lose ground in the second when Jones, using both his hands, landed repeatedly and made the Ottawa man miss. In the fourth, Jones opened a wide cut over Carroll's left eye and Eddie viewed his foe thereafter through a curtain of blood.

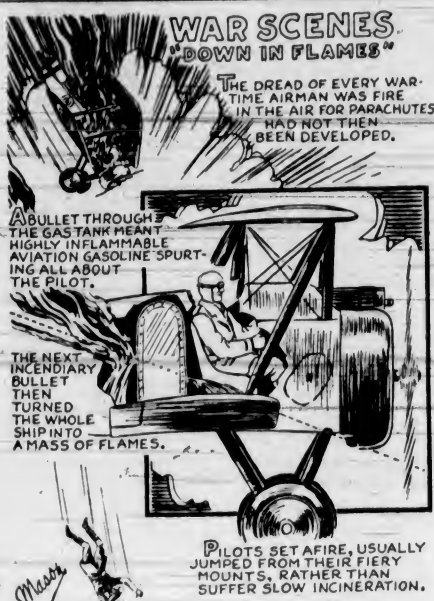

The Ottawa man made a desperate bid to end the bout in the fourth, wading into Jones with both fists and crowding him into the ropes. The negro came up laughing, however, and appeared unhurt. Carroll had a slight edge in the fifth as he roughed Jones around, although he appeared to do little damage.

CARROLL GOES DOWN
In the seventh the negro's nose started to bleed after Jones got in the round of a long hard left. Carroll was still fighting hard in the eighth, but was taking care to keep away

FLIGHT...by W. D. TIPTON and J. H. MASON

THE dread of every fighting airman was fire in the air. Parachutes were not available in World War days and fire meant incineration unless the unfortunate pilot elected, as did many, to jump from his burning craft.

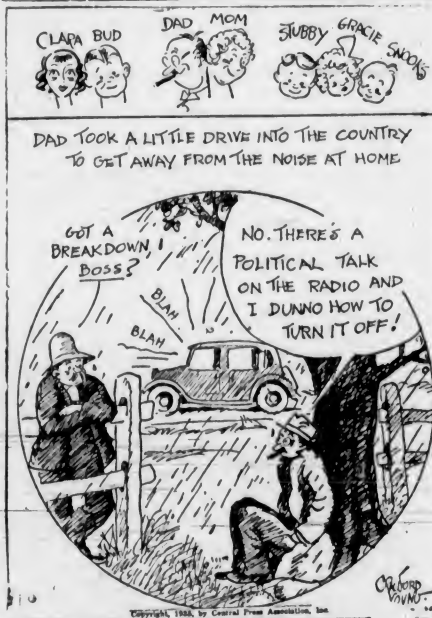

Many persons thought that the gas tank was ignited by enemy incendiary bullets. This was not exactly the case. An incendiary bullet passing through a tank of gasoline, will not ignite it. Gasoline will burn only in the presence of air, which is needed to support combustion. Nor will the tank explode when a bullet passes through the empty space above the fuel level. Here the air is so saturated with gasoline fumes as to be too rich a mixture to explode.

What actually happens is that a bullet, or so punctured the gas tank, and the fuel, under the pressure, spurted out all around the tank and the pilot. The next incendiary bullet coming along touched off this spilling gasoline which then had a chance to mix with air, and the whole plane burst into a mass of flames.

Today, fire in the air with a military airplane is not so serious, for the occupants have their parachutes, but in the late war it was a thought to give overtaught air-men bad dreams.

Floods Create Havoc in China

—Central Press Photographs.

Flood waters of the Yangtze River and of the Grand Canal, in Central China, have begun to recede, leaving devastation in their wake and heavy loss of life. These photos, just received from Shanghai, show (upper photo) the havoc wrought in the heart of Hankow. The Bund, leading to the Hongkong-Shanghai Banking Corporation building, barely discernible in right background, is awash from the flood waters, while (lower photo) hundreds of homeless Chinese flee in small boats from Chongsheng, in Shanghai Province, as the rising waters of the Yangtze demolish their dwellings.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 4 to 6 p.m. and from 9 to 11 p.m.

From unexpected sources a great deal of good may come to you this day. In trying to please others, be careful you do not involve yourself to the extent that some of your personal affairs will be neglected.

Direct, individual contact probably will get more satisfactory results in business this day than any other method. Take the initiative in measures entailing financial negotiations. It will be good judgment not to condemn or reject too hastily any suggestion that might be made to you this day, for careful consideration is likely to reveal that it has a great deal of merit. Impetuously, probably will prove to be the cause of most of this day's complicated situations, so repress any tendency in this direction. Married and engaged couples, and those engaged in the preliminary stages of a love affair, must be watchful that overemphasis of word or speech does not cause it to be construed as indicating a feeling of irritability. Resentment following it is liable to bring distress to the one making this mistake.

If a woman and October 16 is your natal day, impulsiveness is possibly the cause of most of your troubles. Be careful how readily you take up new fads. Do not neglect old friends for new ones, if you would avoid future regrets. A great deal of your happiness may depend on your ability not to allow money to slip through your fingers. Thrift is a very important virtue for you to develop, for the only thing that might interfere with a happy married career, is extravagance. As a business or professional woman you are apt to achieve the best results as a teacher, restaurant or tea-room hostess, insurance or real estate broker, journalist or saleslady. The child born on October 16 must not, during adolescence, be overindulged, or given an exaggerated idea of its mental attainments, if you would avoid having it become conceited.

If a man and October 16 is your birthday, you should never mix sentiment or friendship with business. If you conserve your financial resources the time probably will come when you can use them very advantageously. Law, engineering, writing, painting, manufacturing, selling and educational work are activities in which you should do well.

BERLIN—Automobile tires will be made of rubber trunks which German police carried until they were forbidden recently by the Ministry of the Interior.

GALA GARDEN HERE TONIGHT

Cream of Local Aquatic Performers Will Compete in Crystal Garden Pool

Leading mermen and mermaids of the Victoria, Y.M.C.A. and Pacific Swimming Clubs will vie for honors this evening at the Crystal Garden in the first of the winter season's gala staged by the Vancouver Island Swimming League.

An attractive programme which includes events for the junior swimmers has been drawn up by officials in charge, with the first event scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Rival swimming coaches have been busy with their proteges during the past month and reports from the different camps give every indication of plenty of stiff opposition in the Garden pool tonight.

Eleven events, including a handicap race for each of the three competing clubs, and two junior events, are included on the gala programme. The complete list of events follows: 50 yards, junior girls; 50 yards, junior boys; 100 yards, women; 100 yards, men; V.A.S.C. handicap race; 150 yards medley relay, women; 200 yards medley relay, men; Y.M.C.A. handicap race; Pacific Club handicap race; 200 yards, women; 200 yards, men.

The one thing they didn't teach him

THEY taught him everything about business except the thing he most needed to know—how to avoid offending business men with whom he came in contact.

Are they "not in" to you?

The No. 1 handicap in business is halitosis (bad breath). It hurts you with your associates, your employer, and the people you have to meet in the course of your work.

The insidious thing about halitosis is that you yourself never know when you have it—and anyone, yourself included, is likely to be a victim. Ninety per cent of cases, says a noted dental authority, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles that even careful tooth brushing has failed to remove.

Don't guess about your breath. You can make sure that it is beyond reproach by simply using Listerine. Listerine halts fermentation, a major cause of odors, then gets rid of the odors themselves. The entire mouth becomes sweet, clean, fresh, and wholesome.

Get in the habit of rinsing the mouth with Listerine systematically, every morning and every night, and between times before appointments. Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Tuck it into your bag when you travel. It is a business and social asset. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company (Canada) Ltd., Toronto, Ontario.
